On The Lawn

with LARRY LAWRENCE

I know a man who got so fed up with the mole runs in his lawn, that he finally backed his car up onto the grass, ran a piece of tubing from the exhaust pipe and started the motor. An ingenious and dangerous idea but it didn't work. Either the carbon monoxide escaped or the moles enjoyed it.

A mole is a very persistent animal and if you want to get rid of him you have to understand him. He doesn't dig tunnels for the fun of it or just to get from one place to another. He does it in search of food, particularly grubs. Where there are no grubs to be had there are rarely any moles. So instead of waging war on moles you eliminate their favorite food. It's as simple as that.

Grubs are mostly the larvae of various beetles including the Japanese variety. They live in the soil and by getting rid of them you not only avoid grub damage but send the moles, skunks and raccoon on their way to dig elsewhere.

One product easily used to control lawn grubs and insects is Scotts Cope. It comes in a bag and you spread it just like fertilizer. One treatment is good for at least a year.

Over 600 Enjoy "y" Open House

Agawam Community YMCA president, Ernest C. Swanson expresses sincere appreciation to barbecue chairman, Nicholas Zucco, to general secretary, Jack Moltenbrey and to all of the many persons who assisted so willingly to make a grand success of the Open House held at the "Y" grounds last Saturday.

The sunny, mild weather attracted over 600 children and adults to the YMCA Outdoor Center, with the swimming pool a major attraction. Rev. James Shea, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church in Feeding Hills, arrived at mid-morning with a large group of young people and their coaches from the Church Athletic Association, and enjoyed four hours of varied activities.

Members of the Agawam High School Band together with Band Alumni came at 2 p.m. and presented a concert under the able direction of their leader, Darcy Davis who dedicated a newly erected canvas shelter. Property chairman, Ralph Webster, assisted by Leonard Johnson, III, and other friends of the YMCA completed construction of the much needed shelter Saturday morning just in time for the Open House celebration.

"Chef" Nick Zucco and his committee served 400 barbecue dinners through the afternoon and early evening under ideal weather conditions. Ice cold slices of watermelon was provided as a surprise treat with the dinner. Mr. Zucco wishes to thank those who donated many of the food items and those who loaned much of the equipment.

Families of Agawam are reminded that boys and girls may still enroll in the YMCA Day Camp. Please phone the YMCA office at 733-9676 for details.

007 vs. 4711

Cologne, Germany
James Bond, Secret Agent 007, has vanquished his latest opponent—No. 4711.

A court here rejected an application by the 4711 Cologne Perfume Company — makers of Eau-de-Cologne — to have the Colgate Palmolive Company withdraw its 007 human toiletries from the market.

The firm asserted that selling products by numbers infringed its rights, and that the 007 could be too easily confused with its 4711.

November Is Too Late

When you mark your ballot in your polling booth this November, it is a little late to evaluate the issues and candidates you are called upon to support or reject. Now is the time for every eligible voter to gather information and discuss with others the issues and their effect on the people, the community and the nation. Now is the time to take an interest in public affairs and support those candidates and measures that appear to offer the best along run solutions to the problems before us.

The United States plays a central role in a world of unprecedented change. This fall every voter will be expressing his opinion of policies and proposals that involve war or peace, authority or freedom, national solvency or bankruptcy. An active and informed electorate is more vital than at any other time in our history to the future of a free society under representative government.

Pentagon Dims

Washington

A power disruption blacked out a section of the Pentagon for about 45 minutes shortly after noon Monday.

Officials traced the failure to a false fire in a bank of electrical conduits on the first floor of the five-story structure, the world's largest office building housing some 20,000 military and civilian employees.

Thick smoke boiled into first-floor corridors. No one was injured and a spokesman said no vital operations were curtailed. Communications remained intact and the national military command center was unaffected.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER

By Bill Chiba

PERIBONKA, P. Q., Canada—

As you descend the sharp, curvy hillside of the Laurantide Park, after two hours of driving through the most picturesque landscape imaginable, it is a pleasant shock to have opening up before you a panorama of flat, luscious green pasture land with white and red painted farm homes and barns. The meadows are dotted with black and white cows, with a splattering of brown bovines thrown in for good measure.

Full House

Bob and I stayed at the Maria Chapdelaine Motel in Peribonka. We were the last pair to arrive for the week. The other units were occupied by early arrivals from this area. Farmer Brown and George Maxwell, West Springfield; Harley Shastany and Eddie Pydycha, Springfield; Stan Berchulski, Larry Fountain, Henry Guidi, Joe Fedak, Fran Covell and John Kuhn were already wetting their lines in search for the Quananiche.

The fishing was very slow the early part of the week. Harley Shastany had netted a five pound fish which stayed top weight the rest of the week. Bob and I fished the areas of the lake that produced fish in previous years but to no avail. Wednesday broke with a 50 mile wind whipping the 25 mile lake with rollers and white caps that sent shivers down your spine. We reluctantly gave up the idea of fishing the lake that day.

Find Fish

Bob Jacobs, Springfield, Mass., and I drove into this fairy land for one solid week of fishing Lac St. Jean for the famous Quananiche (landlock salmon) which is slowly but surely dis-

Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1966 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts, (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings. REQUIRED MAINTENANCE: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty—change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; replace oil filter every second oil change; clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every two years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

MONSTERS IN OUR DEPTHS

In Friday night's make-up game Mike Moreau and Brian Nichols were locked up in a pitchers dual until the fifth inning. Two runs scored by Corvairs in last half of that inning put them ahead 5 to 4; Nichols the winner. Line Score:

MONSTERS IN OUR DEPTHS

Reports of sea serpents or monsters are usually dismissed as figments of a vivid imagination, particularly when they come from your favorite fishing hole rather than from the original spawning grounds of Loch Ness.

However, there are several gargantuan fish in our waters that might qualify for the "monster" label, say the fishing authorities at Mercury outboards.

Take the alligator gar, for example. Here's a rough, tough customer with a mouthful of sharp teeth and dimensions to unnerve the bravest of men. Weighing more than 300 pounds and reaching a length of almost 10 feet, this grandaddy of the gar tribe reflects his prehistoric origins in a truly frightening way.

Providing unusual sport on the lower stretches of the White River in Arkansas and other southern locations, the alligator gar does not attack man. He gets a bit touchy when boated or towed ashore, so if you value your limbs give his wicked jaws a wide berth.

The sturgeon is another throwback to an ancient age. His weird appearance plus ample proportions combine to present an awesome sight. While size records for sturgeon are uncertain, one of 1800 pounds has been reported in British Columbia. An Eurasian variety is claimed to reach weights of more than a ton.

Though formidable in appearance, the sturgeon's temperament is unlike that of the legendary sea serpent. Since he possesses no teeth, using a strange tube-like mouth to feed on the bottom instead, he poses no hazard to intruding humans.

The third oddball in our waters is the paddlefish, a pot-bellied creature with a long snout. He has been known to reach 200 pounds in weight and six feet in length. This monster belies his ferocious profile, and feeds on tiny plankton instead of "man-sized" rations as one might suppose.

So next time you hear a wild tale, give it a bit of credence, urge the Mercury folks. Then rig up some "monster" tackle and go fishing.

Advertising is the life of trade.

Film star Shirley Jones will be featured as Maria Reiner in the Storowton Music Fair production "The Sound of Music" which comes to Wally Beach's tent theater at the Eastern States Exposition Grounds, West Springfield, June 27 through July 2.

One of the most popular musicals of all time, "The Sound of Music" reached a peak last April when the motion picture version, starring Julie Andrews was chosen best picture of the year by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

The tender love story of Capt. Von Trapp, a hardened German navy officer and the postulant, Maria Reiner who enters his household as governess for his seven motherless children, is universally known thanks to the popularity of the stage version and the film. It is based on a true life story and Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse created the story when Baroness von Trapp published her reminiscences of "The Trapp Family Singers." The family of singers was composed of a pair of adults and the seven von Trapp children, who delighted concert hall audiences in this country and Europe after fleeing Germany when the Nazis came to power.

This annual show is sponsored by three associations: the Northshore Shopping Center, the New England Mobilehome Association and the New England Travel Trailer Association.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Enjoy - And - Survive

VACATION—For some it's a time of genuine ease and relaxation; for others it's the silly season when a whole year's dreams of the strenuous life seek expression in a brief mad fling.

For the latter group it's a time when life is lived dangerously, pleasure pursued painfully, ease cultivated with strenuous labor.

To be fair about it, the survival rate in vacations is quite high. But the sublethal effects in the form of exhausted bodies, charred skin, torn tendons, and tattered dispositions are usually considerable. Here, then, are a few timely reminders on how to enjoy an outdoor vacation without really trying.

THE BEACH—Court sunburn gradually: no more than 15 minutes the first day. Don't be fooled by overcast; it can mask but not defuse a murderous sun.

THE WATER—Don't be a hero. Don't swim alone, venture too far out, or dive without making sure the water is deep as it looks. If you're tired, overheated, or recently fed it's a wonderful idea to stay out.

SPORTS—Exercise is great, but before playing those extra innings, holes or sets think how your muscles may hate you in the morning. Watch that midday temperature; convalescing from heat stroke in a summer hotel is poor economics.

NATURE—The city slicker seldom recognises poison plants until they've recognized him. "Leaves three, let it be" is a handy rule that applies to ivy and poison oak. As for snakes, they'll usually let you alone if treated with the respect befitting their station in life.

THE ROAD—Summer is literally the bangup season for highway accidents. Shield your eyes from sun and your mind from impatient haste. If you drink let someone else do the driving, and vice versa.

Your Christmas Seal Association, which would like you to go on living free of TB, other respiratory diseases, and vacation trauma, hopes you'll have a whirl.

Register Now For 'Y'
Junior Band Program

Chances look good for Junior Band Program at "Y" this Summer. The initial response has been good enough to assure the operation of the program with several weeks remaining before rehearsals actually start on July 5. Any students in grades 4-8 who wish to play in this group should contact Mr. Davis or the "Y" office. Registration will remain open through the first rehearsals.

The junior unit to start in July has no connection with the group that will play for the Barbecue on June 18. This will be made up of some of the present high school band members and graduates of the high school band or any adults who would like to play. There is a possibility that an adult-senior band of this type will be maintained during the summer if enough can participate.
